“Vissi d’arte, vissi d’amore”

by Fealing Lin

I am often asked if I have been drawing and painting since I was a child. My answer is no. My road to the joys of watercolor has been a long journey paved with hard work and unusual decisions.

I am originally from Taiwan and was born into a family in the medical field, so, following tradition, I became a licensed dentist. So somehow, art found me!

When my two sons were born, I reassessed the values and goals for my life. I gradually took art and vocal technique classes from Pasadena City College, where I met my first watercolor mentor, Professor Verna Wells. She helped me believe in myself so much that I began to paint watercolor effortlessly. Ultimately, I abandoned the tray of dental instruments and high-speed drills in favor of a palette of paints and brushes.

I recently celebrated ten years of teaching watercolor, the period in which I was also a featured artist at Descanso Gardens Gallery. I look back and realize how blessed I am

That says it all.

that I was able to remain focused in spite of obstacles. I have always been driven by an abundant creative force to move to the next artistic level.

I am inspired by the beauty around me and I feel that I must express it. As a young person, I tried to fulfill this inspiration through writing, poetry, dancing, and music. None of these kept me committed. However, in my early twenties I studied drawing with renowned artist, Professor Jing Yong Cheng, and he inspired me to continue with my art.

To be true to your gifts, be both inspired and inspiring – then you can express your love, your passion, your strength and your belief in the human spirit. My favorite place to paint is Italy. I am drawn inescapably to the old architecture in its towns and villages. The narrow streets are artfully defined by their marvelous tapestry of light and shadow. I find myself lost in time and space and feel as though I have traveled back in history.

I love to sing, and although I stopped singing publicly quite a few years ago, I now sing along with my favorite sopranos while painting in my studio.

Award-winning watercolorist, Fealing Lin of San Marino, California, was born in Taiwan and began her journey into artistic expression as a protégé of renowned professor Ching-Jung Chen in Taiwan, subsequently pursuing her career in the United States with watercolorist and senior art historian professor Verna Wells.

With a fluidity of colors, Ms. Lin combines impressionistic strokes and semi-abstract techniques to elicit life and movement in her portrait and landscape watercolors. Her paintings adorn the paper with both harmony and emotion.

Although briefly diverted from her passion by a family tradition of medicine and dentistry, Fealing ultimately abandoned her tray of instruments and high-speed drills in favor of her pallet and brushes. Now she is a teacher, demonstrator, judge, and active exhibitor.

Said Professor William Blackshaw,

An Ancient Tune by Fealing Lin

President of the Royal Watercolor Society in England, “Fealing Lin paints poems that vibrate with light and color... long may she continue to delight the eye and move the spirit”

“My passion for watercolor,” says Ms. Lin, “comes from the opportunity it gives me to be totally spontaneous in the pursuit of traditional watercolor transparency which is the “glow” from the white paper that emerges through the paint once a fusion occurs from the application of wet onto wet.

Fealing is an annual guest instructor at Yosemite National Park, an instructor at Brand Art Studios at Brand Library in Glendale, and San Gabriel Recreation center in San Gabriel. She was featured at Descanso Gardens Gallery for 10 consecutive years. She has taught watercolor workshops throughout California and the US. Fealing has been enthusiastically embraced by the general public and private collectors alike.

Fealing is a signature member of National Watercolor Society, Watercolor West, San Diego Watercolor Society and the Missouri Watercolor Society. Her works have been juried in many national exhibitions including NWS, WW, TWSA (Transparent Watercolor Society of America), Brand National, Audubon Artist, San Diego Watercolor International and many others. She has won numerous awards among these shows.

Fealing's works also appear in many magazines and books, including "Watercolor Magic", "Artist Sketch Magazine", "International Artist Magazine", "Best Watercolor", and "Splash" (9, 10, 11&12). She is one of the 15 artists who contributed to the book "Watercolor Secrets" by North Light Books (2009). Her self-portrait is featured on the cover.

Violet Collage #13 by Shirley Nachtrieb

Collage as Art

By Shirley Nachtrieb

The act of collage is an exciting journey into the realm of design and intuitive expression. The papers used in the construction of a collage are often personally painted by the artist, colors mixed to express their personal tastes in hues or values. The part where design comes into the collage is where the artist is able to focus on certain design formats or pure intuition to get his point across to the viewer. What is the painting trying to convey?

Art is a personal statement from the heart of the artist to the personal esthetics of those viewing it. Each person will see something different in an abstraction. Some will be drawn to the colors used in the painting, others will see the value of lights and darks used in the composition and appreciate that. Others will actually be able to tune into the personal statement that the artist is trying to share. All in all, art has something to say to everyone if they just stop to notice and appreciate it. It is the artist's way of documenting why he is here, what he wants to share and what he wishes to leave behind as part of his legacy. That thought of leaving a legacy defines the purpose for creating. It's also gives the artist permission to say what they want to say, just being themselves.

Collage makes the personal statement of the artist more dimensional and exciting. It can be a planned adventure or a curative one which corrects a mistake. I enjoy the many aspects of collage to make dimension something you can actually "feel." I'm sharing one of my floral collage lessons for the reader to attempt. You have my permission to enjoy, express, and entertain the viewer's eye.

VIOLET COLLAGE

by Shirley Nachtrieb

Use the split primary palette. Have extra paper on hand to practice petals and leaves. These will later be torn away from the paper and added to another painting using matte gel medium. This will add wonderful dimension to your paintings.

1. Paint several violet flowers and leaves on scrap paper remembering to have variety in colors and values.
2. Wet into wet technique: Prepare creamy (not watery) puddles of paint before you wet the paper. Wet paper both sides. With a damp (not wet) brush, pick up the violet colors and paint the center of the nose gay with a variety of shades of violet flowers.
3. To the outside edge of the flowers, add leaves using a variety of greens. Use your 1" flat watercolor brush and try to do this in one stroke. Lift veins with ½" angle shader brush. Allow painting to completely dry.
4. Tear out flowers and leaves from previous scrap paper painting and adhere to nose gay using gel matte medium. This is a beautiful technique which is also fun and hides a lot of imperfections. It also improves your eye for design.

TIPS

FROM JEAN GOTTAS: It is well known that dabbing a few drops of glycerin on w/c tube caps or threading... to keep it from sticking. I thought everyone knew this but when I attended a lunch in Springfield in March there was talk at one table about tube caps sticking and someone said Jean uses glycerin. It does work well and can be purchased at pharmacies for a few dollars.

FROM NORMA HERRING: My husband and I toured the Crystal Bridges Museum of American Art in Bentonville, AR a few weeks ago.....absolutely an incredible experience. It is a treasure for all to see and it is "free" thanks to Alice Walton. It is 400 + paintings, all "originals" hung in gorgeous galleries on 120 acres of land planted with miles of beautiful plants and native trees. Someone told me just one of the paintings cost $64 million so you know what a spectacular place it is. I can't wait to go back again because I was in such awe that I couldn't take it all in. They let you get up close to the works and take pictures as long as you don't use a flash....just amazing. If any MOWS members have not heard of this it would be a favor to mention it.
